

Russia Aids Search for Americans

MOSCOW (AP) — A small American plane carrying two U.S. generals has landed safely in Soviet Armenia north of the area of Turkey over which it vanished, Tass news agency said today.

Tass said the four men aboard were in good health, and added: "The competent Soviet authorities have been instructed to investigate the circumstances connected with the above-mentioned violation of the Soviet Union's state frontier by the plane of the U.S. Air Force."

The plane landed Wednesday near the town of Leninakan in Armenia the agency reported. It had been reported missing in bad weather.

Aboard were Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Scherrer, commander of the joint U.S. Military mission to Turkey, and Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., head of the mission's Army section.

The Soviet Embassy in Ankara had said Russian planes joined in the air search, but Tass made no mention of this.

The plane was piloted by Maj. James P. Russell, 42, a native of Mississippi, and a Turkish colonel also was aboard. It was on a 120-mile flight from Erzurum to Kars, which is 40 miles from the heavily fortified border.

The weather cleared during the night, and Turkish helicopters and spotter planes were out searching today. The Turkish radio asked villagers in the mountainous area to join in the hunt.

Soviet officials were informed the plane might have come down on their side of the border, and a source at the Soviet Embassy said a search was being made in Soviet territory but so far without result. However, most officials in Ankara believed the plane had crashed in the rugged mountains of eastern Turkey.

Scherrer is the highest ranking American officer in Turkey. His mission handles distribution of military aid to the country, a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Scherrer, 57, a native of Shawneetown, Ill., has headed the mission in Turkey since December 1968. He is a 1937 graduate of West Point and served in the Pacific in World War II. After the war he served in Europe, in South Korea and in Washington with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He is married and has two grown sons.

McQuarrie, 45, was born at Ft. Benning, Ga., the son of a professional soldier. He was graduated from West Point in June 1945. He commanded a company and a battalion during the Korean War, and in Vietnam he was deputy commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and chief of staff of the Army Support Command. He is married and has three children.

Disbanding Zoo Has Rare Albino Monkey

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A disbanding zoo believes it has one of the few albino monkeys in the world.

The monkey, a macaque from Asia, was born Oct. 8. Officials of the Greensboro County Park Zoo have kept him a secret until now for fear the public's curiosity could endanger his life.

"Actually, we weren't sure what we had," said Ed Vonderlippe, director of the zoo's science center. "I didn't know whether baby macaques were born white and turned dark later. We still have some questions which only an expert can answer."

Ordinarily, a macaque has black fur and eyes and a red face. The Greensboro baby has white fur, a pink face and blue-gray eyes.

The zoo, which is closing for lack of funds, had offered all its monkeys for sale several weeks ago. But no one was interested in the baby's pregnant mother.

Nixon Stays With Missiles in Defense

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is turning toward a defense strategy grounded chiefly in massive nuclear retaliation, although the United States no longer enjoys the clear atomic superiority it held over the Soviet Union a decade ago.

Despite severe pressure to slash military spending, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has given every indication this nation intends to keep its strategic nuclear striking power—and thus its deterrent—undiminished.

Worried over spectacular Russian missile growth during the past five years, Laird has said repeatedly the United States may be forced to buy a costly new sea-based missile system or an advanced bomber if the strategic arms limitation talks should fail.

To help pay for maintaining a strong nuclear shield and for modern military equipment of many kinds, the Pentagon is cutting uniformed manpower drastically.

While the conventional force slashes tend to point up the nation's reliance on its nuclear power for security, the United States is in no sense returning to the "brinkmanship" diplomacy attributed to the Eisenhower administration.

Quite the contrary. The Nixon administration is emphasizing negotiation—not confrontation—and its conventional force reduction goes hand in hand with a pullback from overseas military involvements.

But some, including Army officials, believe the virtual nuclear parity now existing between the United States and Russia makes the non-nuclear military forces even more important than before.

"Since the Soviets now have less fear of nuclear retaliation, we can expect them to test our will at lower levels of conflict," says Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor.

There is reason to believe the number of Americans in service may be reduced to about 2.4 million by mid-1972. This would be about 600,000 below the present level, 1.1 million under the Vietnam war peak in 1968, and slightly below the 1960 level.

Under present plans the Army will be trimmed to 23 2-3 divisions by next June, six divisions below the high point in Vietnam and two 2-3 divisions smaller than just before the Vietnam war. In 1960, the Army had 14 divisions.

The Navy, following a series of fleet cutbacks, is entered for a force of about 614 ships averaging 16.4 years in age. By comparison, the Navy in 1960 had 812 ships averaging 12.3 years in age.

The Navy faces a further loss in aircraft carriers. Current plans call for 14 attack carriers, compared to 16 at the height of the Vietnam war, and studies under way could lower the carrier strength to 12 vessels. Meanwhile, the fleet has only four antisubmarine warfare carriers left to deal with a growing Soviet underwater threat.

In 1960, the Navy had 14 attack carriers and 9 devoted to antisubmarine warfare missions.

The Air Force is better off in tactical fighter squadrons, with 84 such units today compared with 61 ten years ago. But the conventional force cutback is almost certain to drain away tactical fighter strength.

In airlift, the Air Force has 51 squadrons of transports to haul troops and their equipment, 16 squadrons fewer than 10 years ago.

The quality of airlift has improved, with faster and longer-range aircraft introduced in the past 10 years. All services have better weapons today.

However, sea lift—which would haul about 90 per cent of army and marine gear overseas, is in worse shape because of fewer and older ships, along with deterioration of the U.S. Merchant Marine.

The Marine Corps is returning to its pre-Vietnam level of three divisions and three supporting air wings, the same as existed in 1960.

A decade ago, critics claimed the Eisenhower administration had starved conventional forces and left the United States with little choice between nuclear holocaust and retreat or surrender in the face of Communist challenges around the world.

The note was signed:

"Knight of Pentacles
"Knight of Swords."

The pentacle is a five-sided figure associated with witchcraft as a magical or talisman device, in fiction often used to summon up the devil.

The Knights are the four suits of the 78-card tarot deck, used to tell one's fortune depending on which direction the large cards fall.

Tara said the note was withheld initially so as not to alarm citizens.

"The note itself is in the hands of some of the most competent analysts in the state," he said.

He added: "We recognize the shock this senseless act has brought to our citizenry. We trust that the sober judgment of our residents will prevail over any emotional reaction."

Besides Dr. Ohta, those slain were his wife, Virginia, 43, sons Derrick, 12, and Taggart, 11, and secretary, Dorothy Cadwalader, 38.

Each of the victims was shot once in the back of the head, and Ohta was shot in the back. All were dumped into the swimming pool of the mansion outside the city. The house was set afire.

Firemen, looking for water to fight the blaze, discovered the bound, fully clothed bodies in the pool.

Discovery of Mrs. Ohta's stolen 1968 green Oldsmobile station wagon, smashed by a switch engine in a tunnel near Felton Tuesday evening, was the first announced solid clue in the case.

Scores of law enforcement officers fanned out through the surrounding redwood forest to look for suspects.

The vehicle was empty when struck by the engine, but the motor was still warm, and an attempt had been made to burn the car. Two sets of footprints led from the vehicle.

The tunnel is north of Santa Cruz, about seven miles from the killings and in an area abounding with hippie-type communes.

The road and tracks below run alongside a redwood gorge of the Santa Cruz Mountains. The sheriff's administrative assistant, Lou Keller, said whoever drove the car on the tracks "just had to have local knowledge."

He added, "I travel that road every day and I didn't know the tunnel was there."

Keller said the area's "indigent transient" population was being questioned, but other possibilities were not being ruled out.

The two youths and girl were being sought because a woman real estate agent reported earlier Tuesday spotting the station wagon parked off the road in some brush near Felton. The three were reported seen nearby, where campfire ashes were found.

A friend of the Ohtas said Mrs. Ohta told her two months ago that her husband had to chase six "hippie-types" off the porch.

Dr. Ohta was known to have provided free medical care to some hippie-types, but there was no official speculation on any relationship.

Would Ban Big Jets Unless Noise Cut

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists urged major airport authorities today to ban supersonic jets unless their engine noise can be restricted to levels no higher than from conventional jets.

The petition sent to seven airport authorities by the Environmental Defense Fund cited congressional testimony that SSTs will expose widespread areas around airports to "unprecedented noise levels," many times higher than from subsonic jets.

If this is permitted, the petition said, airport authorities could be sued for damages by nearby property owners.

The petition cited a Supreme Court decision that property owners could collect damages from an airport authority if low-level flights interfered with the use and enjoyment of their land. Lower courts have since held that the affected property is not limited to land directly below landing and takeoff paths.

said, the Syrian defense minister, seized control of the government in Damascus and began cracking down on Saika.

Jordanian officers estimate there are 20,000 Saika guerrillas in Syria who are trying to flee to northern Jordan and southern Lebanon.

There was more fighting in this area of northern Jordan Wednesday and Wednesday night. Two rockets fell on Mughayer, where the Jordanians have set up a headquarters in a battered school to watch guerrilla movements across the valley in Torra, Shajara and two other villages close to the Syrian border.

Residents are jittery because of the repeated clashes and want the guerrillas to leave the area. The army blasted its way into the village last Saturday, driving the guerrillas across the valley to Shajara.

Fighting began in the area Saturday, the day after the government shakeup in Syria was reported. The clashes, usually exchanges of artillery and rocket fire, have continued this week.

The commandos charge that the Jordanian army is trying to cut off their supply routes from Syria and prevent their free movement on the country's roads in violation of the peace agreement guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and King Hussein signed nine days ago.

Senior members of the international Arab peace mission supervising the agreement went north to Ramtha Wednesday to investigate several shooting incidents in the town. One officer said there was intense movement of Jordanian tanks outside Ramtha.

Gasib said he is convinced the guerrillas have a master plan, backed by the governments in Syria and Iraq, to split north Jordan from the rest of the country to make it the Middle East equivalent of Vietnam or Korea. Arafat has said he wants Amman to be the Hanoi of the Arab world.

Meanwhile, in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip an Israeli army patrol shot and killed an Arab woman when she failed to halt for an identity check during the nightly curfew, the Israeli military command said.

Safety Board Enters Into Crash Probe

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Business ties between Wichita State University, Jack Richards Aviation and Golden Eagle Aviation were expected to come under scrutiny at a National Transportation Safety Board hearing today.

The board of inquiry was convened by the NTSB to determine the probable cause of a crash in the Colorado Rockies Oct. 2 of a plane carrying half the Wichita State football team to a game in Logan, Utah.

Thirteen players and 17 other athletic officials and fans died in the crash near Silver Plume, Colo.

Richard G. Rodriguez, an air safety investigator who spearheaded quizzing in Wednesday's opening session of Ronald G. Skipper, president of Golden Eagle and co-pilot of the ill-fated plane, said the matter of contracts and leases involving Wichita State and the two Oklahoma City companies would be explored.

Skipper, who survived the crash, spent nearly four hours on the witness stand Wednesday, and was still testifying when the session ended. He was the ninth of 25 witnesses scheduled to be called.

Skipper said Dan Crocker, the plane's pilot who died in the crash, took the controls away from him when it became apparent the aircraft couldn't clear the Continental Divide.

Skipper said he suggested to Crocker that they change course to gain altitude, and that he began a 45-degree turn to the right with the idea of then making a big sweeping turn to the left and taking the plane back down the valley.

"As I was rolling out of this (right) turn," Skipper said, "Capt. Crocker said, 'I've got the airplane.' He negotiated a left turn. The airplane started vibrating. He put the nose of the plane down, and shortly thereafter, we crashed."

The Golden Eagle president said he suspected the engines developed some mechanical trouble, but said he had no criticism of the plane's performance until the moment Crocker turned it to the left.

Skipper conceded that the route through the Rockies was not the one taken by most airliners, but said he didn't think the Martin 404 had enough power to carry it over the standard route several miles north.

"That doesn't sound to me like any great program of progress," Bumpers said.

At his campaign headquarters in Pine Bluff, Bumpers met with a group of 20 blacks who questioned him about his attitudes toward Arkansas AM&N College.

Bumpers pledged to keep the college open and he left little doubt that this will be possible.

Speaking to about 600 students at Ouachita Baptist University at Arkadelphia, Bumpers said he would vote against repealing the full-crew railroad laws, that he opposed racial busing and was for the neighborhood school concept. He also said he would vote for the new constitution, was for more state park facilities, that he was opposed to legalized gambling and that he could not "bring myself to say I would abolish capital punishment."

'Enriched' Bread Not Good for Rats

HOUSTON (AP) — Rats died or were stunted when fed only bread which commercial bakers describe as "enriched," a nutrition expert reports.

At the same time, Dr. Roger J. Williams of the University of Texas said Wednesday, the same bread with added minerals, vitamins and an amino acid named lysine kept other laboratory rats alive and growing.

"From this experiment," he said, "it appears that an extremely serious situation exists with respect to the manifold products made from so-called enriched flour."

"Enriched products, whether they be bread, bakery goods or cereal breakfast foods, are nutritionally far below what scientific advance should demand."

Williams told the fall meeting of the National Academy of Science that he fed 64 rats nothing but the enriched bread for 90 days. He said 40 of them died of malnutrition and the rest became severely stunted.

Peace Prize Goes to U.S. Agronomist

By KEVIN M. KELLEGHAN
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The American agronomist awarded the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize says the "green revolution" for which he is being honored can buy only 20 more years for a world faced with overpopulation.

"The unrealistic attitudes of the world toward unreasonable population growth is the biggest problem we face now," Dr. Norman E. Borlaug told a news conference Wednesday night. "We should multiply in relation to the increase in the world's production of food."

The 57-year-old Iowan said, "Governments in developing countries must stimulate agriculture while at the same time balancing industrial growth. If agriculture is given its fair share, there may still be hope in this century."

Borlaug, named for the $80,000 prize Wednesday, has made harvests more bountiful in hungry countries through development of a dwarf wheat strain that gives very high yields. The term "green revolution" refers to the use of improved grains and farming techniques to produce larger crops.

He said that before he introduced his wheat improvement program in Pakistan, a rumor circulated there that his variety would make the women of the country sterile.

"Oh, if that were only true!" said Borlaug. "Then we would really merit the Nobel Peace Prize. The green revolution cannot cure all the ills, but it is a step forward. The problem is simply that too many people are coming on the scene too fast."

Borlaug came to Mexico 28 years ago to work on improved wheat strains with the Mexican Ministry of Agriculture and the Rockefeller Foundation, of which he is a director. He heads a team of scientists from 17 nations experimenting with new types of grains at the Rockefeller Agricultural Institute.

"You can solve the pollution problems, you can reduce the smog by one-fourth," he continued. "But if you don't solve the population explosion, none of the other solutions are going to be very rosy."

Borlaug is the 15th American to win or share the peace prize since it was first given in 1901 by the foundation established by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

Talking Fetus Big Hoax on Suharto

By FRANK N. HAWKINS JR.
Associated Press Writer
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A woman who claimed to be 18 months pregnant with a fetus that could recite the Koran aloud perpetrated a hoax on President Suharto, his wife and other Indonesian leaders, informed sources said today.

A team of medical experts examined Mrs. Tjut Zahara, 22, at Jakarta's central hospital Wednesday and found she had been feigning pregnancy by distending her stomach muscles, the informants said. However, the doctors found indications she may have given birth sometime recently.

After the examination, Mrs. Zahara was taken to a secret location for psychiatric examination, the sources said.

Antara, the official news agency, reported only that "parents of the miracle baby will be investigated by the attorney general's office as a step in clearing up the sensational fuss." The report did not mention the doctors' findings.

Mrs. Zahara, daughter of a Jakarta businessman, began claiming a year and a half ago that she was pregnant and that her unborn baby talked to her, reciting passages of the Koran and speaking its own thoughts.

Several times, including once in Pakistan, doctors examined her and declared she was pregnant.

Hundreds of persons said they heard the baby talk. One Indonesian newsman made a tape recording of quotations from the Koran apparently coming from

PRAISES HIGHWAY WORK

(Editor's Note: The following letter is a copy of one mailed to Mr. Truman Baker, chairman of the Arkansas Highway Commission, by Jesse Duckett, president of the Hope Board of Realtors.)

"Dear Mr. Baker: 'Too often the general public offers criticism of the Arkansas Highway Department rather than be complimentary of the excellent job that has been accomplished in so much of Arkansas in the over-all improvement of our highway system. No profession is more aware of the value of good highways constructed and maintained by experienced engineers than do we Realtors for it is directly reflected in increased real estate values."

"May the Hope Board of Realtors take this opportunity of complimenting Mr. Ward Goodman and his staff of personnel, and particularly our local Mr. John Tallant, the Hope District Engineer and his department, on the highway system in this area as a whole with special reference to the recent improvement on that section of State Highway No. 4 north commencing at U.S. Highway No. 67 junction to the State Highway No. 4 interchange on Interstate No. 30, known as North Hervey Street. Although we realize that this improvement is not of a permanent nature, nevertheless it transferred a disgraceful approach to the City of Hope into an access we are all proud of. The reconstruction of the No. 4 underpass will complete the job."

"Keep up the good work."

Respectfully yours,

the woman's body. But a foreign newsman who interviewed Mrs. Zahara reported that she left the room between the baby's speeches, and he speculated she was changing the reel on a tape recorder strapped between her legs.

President and Mrs. Suharto had the woman to the presidential palace three times and were photographed with her. Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, president of the People's Provisional Consultative Council and one of the nation's most respected men, prayed alongside the "baby."

Foreign Minister Adam Malik, after a visit with the woman, said: "I believe in miracles because I believe in God."

Recently Mrs. Zahara said she was going to West Germany to be examined by doctors there and then to Mecca, where she said her baby had asked to be born. Malik gave her a letter saying she was "touring the world at the request of her unborn baby" and asking foreigners to extend their hospitality to her.

There is an organized program—the Department of the Interior's Johnny Horizon Program—that welcomes self-starting volunteers such as the young people who wrote to you. She's really a sweet girl, but the kids who aren't mean to her just ignore her, and that's almost as bad. Even my good friends won't be bothered trying to help her. They think I'm a dumb do-gooder.

Woman Blames Detergents for Trouble

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Connecticut woman spent two days in the hospital with skin eruptions she said were caused by enzyme detergents.

One woman complained that her daughter's month-long absence from school—blamed on reactions to enzyme detergents—kept the girl from being class valedictorian.

A New Jersey mother complained that she and her son could barely breathe at times because of their reactions to enzyme detergents.

Enzymes are the chemicals which help remove organic stains from clothing. Since enzyme detergents and presoaks were introduced three years ago, they've captured an estimated 75 per cent of the laundry product market.

They've also brought hundreds of complaints of allergic reactions to the manufacturers, government officials and independent consumer advocates. These complaints have alerted the government concerned enough to seek two independent studies.

Soap and detergent industry officials discount the complaints and say they have yet to find a single proven instance of an allergic reaction traced directly to enzyme detergents.

The Federal Trade Commission, however, said it has received "somewhat in excess of 200" complaints, and the Food and Drug Administration said it has gotten 121.

Industry spokesmen said doctors and scientists check out every complaint which seems medically verifiable. But interviews with five persons who complained to the soap companies turned up only one—a New Jersey mother—who was contacted by a doctor retained by the firm.

The mother said the doctor told her by phone to let him know if she had any more problems with the product. "But I never used it again," she said.

But the Connecticut woman who blamed her hospitalization on enzymes said: "My doctors are quite certain that it was caused by the enzymes in the detergent."

With the individual complaints have come scientific studies.

Six months after British researchers reported respiratory problems among factory workers who came in contact with enzymes, skin specialists at December's annual meeting of the American Academy of Dermatology reported on skin eruptions caused by the wearing of clothes washed in enzymes.

Sweden recently banned enzymes in detergents manufactured by the national cooperative.

However, the Soap and Detergent Association in this country points to industry tests of 1,500 persons in which not a single subject was more sensitive to detergents with enzymes than to detergents without them.

Magnolia to Be Out for Revenge

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Losing to the Hope Bobcats last year, the Magnolia Panthers will be out for a lot of revenge this coming Friday, but it is doubtful that they can get it this year, although they'll be trying awful hard.

The Bobcats were embarrassed by the highly ranked Arkadelphia Badgers while the Panthers were shutout by Malvern in last weeks contests.

This figures to be a real battle to see who can come back after last weeks game, and who has the most spirit, pride, and determination.

Magnolia is led by quarterback Steve Canter, a proven player earning all-state honors in Texas last year. He has a reliable backfield runner in John Kincaide with expected help from Dennis Knotts and James Erwin.

Roger Loper, a 175 pound center, and 200 pound tackle Randy Nance lead the offensive line. Both are fairly quick and exceptionally good blockers.

Also, returning at end is Ronnie Smith, a good receiver with quick hands.

Others seeing action will be Ken Gilbert, Mark Phillips, Allen Barge, and James Barge.

Magnolia looks pretty solid on defense returning eight of last years starters. The Panthers run a monster defense, using a 6-5 formation on the goal line.

Returning at noseman is Ralph Horridge, with Claude Wells and Mike Burdine at both tackle positions. Tom Schneider and Jerry Caldwell own the defensive end slots, with Barton Dodson also seeing action.

A-State Still Top Small College

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas State, unbeaten in five games, kept its No. 1 spot today for the fourth straight week in The Associated Press' small college football poll.

A 38-17 winner over Louisiana Tech last Saturday, Arkansas State drew four first-place votes from sports writers and sportscasters across the country and piled up 252 points.

Montana, with a 6-0 record, also maintained the No. 2 position after edging Idaho State 35-34 last Saturday and picked up two-first place votes and 203 points.

Tampa, tied for fourth in last week's poll, jumped to the third with three first-place votes and 199 points, thanks to a 31-14 victory over Miami, Fla., a major college.

Texas A&I and Tennessee State, both unbeaten in five games, hold the fourth and fifth spots. Texas A&I, 27-0 winner over Sul Ross State, dropped a notch from a tie for fourth, while Tennessee State, idle last week, moved up one place.

Completing the Top Ten are newcomer North Dakota State, 5-0-1, Delaware, Western Kentucky, Southern Illinois and Wofford.

Delaware, which humbled Rutgers 54-21 last week, drew two first-place votes, as did Wofford, unbeaten in six games, and a 31-14 winner over Newberry last week.

Eastern Kentucky, ranked No. 14, and Linfield, Ore., No. 18, each picked up a first-place vote.

Bradshaw Fined for Missing Practice

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A remorseful Terry Bradshaw says he feels he "let the team down" by not showing up for a crucial Steeler practice session Tuesday. Coach Chuck Noll apparently felt the same so he fined Bradshaw "a substantial sum."

It was the second fine in less than a week for the star rookie quarterback.

Bradshaw who has permission to visit his Louisiana home after road games, telephoned Noll Monday night and told him he was having trouble getting a flight out of Shreveport.

"He said something about being fogged in or something but that's no excuse for missing practice," Noll said.

Bradshaw's absence deprived the Steelers of a full practice session in preparation for their game Sunday with the Oakland Raiders.

"I feel as if I let the team down," said Bradshaw after practicing with the team Wednesday. "I won't be making any more such side trips after games. They're not worth it."

"But I would like to make it known that I made an honest effort to get to Pittsburgh on Tuesday in time for the practice," he added.

Regardless, there's a team rule that any player missing a practice session would automatically be fined.

Bradshaw was fined $25 last weekend for reporting late to a team meeting on Saturday night in Houston, where he had been entertaining his parents and friends prior to Sunday's game with the Oilers.

It was in that game that Bradshaw tossed a 67-yard touchdown pass to Ron Shanklin to give the Steelers a 7-3 victory.

Figures Hope Over Magnolia

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Top-ranked North Little Rock, after five consecutive weeks of AAAA combat, takes on Class AA Conway Friday night.

That is not to say that the Wildcats will have an easy time with the Wampus Cats.

Conway is 4-2-1 for the season, losing only to Little Rock Catholic and Little Rock McClellan.

North Little Rock has upped its record to 6-1 with consecutive victories over Horace Mann, Little Rock Hall, El Dorado, NLR Northeast and Little Rock Central.

The Wildcats like the view from the top and Billy Burns and Ricky Newth and Co., aren't about to let go yet.

Jacksonville still has a chance to gain the top spot in Class AAA-East, but the Red Devils must defeat Little Rock McClellan this week.

Jacksonville put the only blemish on the record of second-ranked Jonesboro, battling the Hurricane to a 0-0 tie. Last week, Jonesboro dampened McClellan's title hopes with a 17-7 victory.

McClellan should be down and Jacksonville should be up, but just on a hunch:

MCCLELLAN 8, JACKSONVILLE 7.

Subiaco journeys to Harrison Friday night in a game that will eliminate one team from the Region 1AA race. Both have lost once and are chasing Rogers, which is unbeaten in conference play.

Pete Is Most Expensive Benchwarmer

By RAY BELL
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — What's this ... a $2 million benchwarmer?

It may sound unusual, but that's exactly how Pistol Pete Maravich, the Atlanta Hawks' prize rookie, started his National Basketball Association career.

And, according to Coach Richie Guerin, it may remain that way for a time.

"I'm going to put the best players on the court," Guerin says.

Maravich, the former college sharpshooter from Louisiana State University, says learning to come off the bench is perhaps the biggest adjustment he's having to make in professional basketball.

"This is a position I've never been in before," he says, adding quickly, "but all I want to do is to help win a championship. That's the only thing I've never accomplished in basketball."

The boyish Maravich, who reportedly signed with the Hawks for $2 million, was the nation's No. 1 college scorer with 3,667 points over a three-year span. He averaged 44.2 points per game while at Louisiana State, but the Tigers never managed to win the Southeastern Conference basketball crown.

Maravich's professional debut came last weekend as the Hawks dropped a 107-98 decision to the Milwaukee Bucks in the season opener for both teams.

He entered the game in the second quarter, wound up logging 22 minutes of game time, but appeared erratic as he finished with only seven points — three of 13 shots from the floor — three rebounds and four assists.

In Atlanta's second game Wednesday night against the San Francisco Warriors, Maravich played 19 minutes, hit three

Two Ouachita Players Are Setting Pace

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ouachita University's Johnny Baker and Barry Bennett continue to set the pace in this week's Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference football statistics.

Baker, who managed only 17 yards against Arkansas AM&N last week, upped his season's total to 907 yards, good enough for big leads in both rushing and total offense. The 160-pound sophomore also leads the conference in scoring with 60 points.

Bennett, the Tigers' junior quarterback, tops the AIC in passing and punting. He's connected on 34 passes for 609 yards and seven touchdowns and has kicked 24 times for a 39.7 average.

Southern State's Cornell Williams is the leader in both kick-off and punt returns. He's returned seven kickoffs for a 27.1 average and has returned five punts for an average of 19.2.

Ronnie Peacock of Harding is far ahead in pass receiving with 36 catches for 466 yards and four TDs. Roy Eoff of Arkansas Tech and Steve Starkey of Ouachita are tied for the pass interception lead with seven each.

Pistons Are Hottest in Pro Play

By LARRY ELDRIDGE
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The amazing Detroit Pistons, last place finishers a year ago, have streaked out to a 5-0 record to rank as the big early surprises of the 1970-71 National Basketball Association season.

"We're really playing together, and everything seems to be clicking," Dave Bing said Wednesday night after scoring 35 points and hitting a succession of clutch baskets in a 121-18 victory over the Boston Celtics.

"Our attitude is much different this year," added Jimmy Walker, the Boston native and former Providence College All-American who contributed 25 points in a big showsbefore his hometown fans.

"Every single game we're thinking winning," Walker added. "We don't want to lose any game. In the long run that's impossible, of course, but that's the attitude on this team now."

Bing and Walker were virtually the whole show Wednesday night, not only teaming together in the backcourt to rack up their combined 60-point total, but also leading the fourth period surge which brought the victory.

Their efforts and a good job by Terry Dischinger, who had 16 points and some key rebounds, offset the first poor performance by 6-foot-11 rookie Bob Lanier, the NBA's top draft choice this season.

The addition of Lanier has obviously helped, even though the former St. Bonaventure star isn't 100 per cent yet due to the knee injury he suffered right at the end of his college career last spring. And former Boston College star Terry Driscoll, who played his first post-college season in Italy last year before joining the Pistons, also gives them more depth and balance up front.

Fishing is the only sport in the world when finding a cool spot may mean you've found a "hot spot".

Most anglers look to traditional "hot spots" for their summer fishing success, when —in reality—they should be searching out those cool, shaded places where fish find life more pleasant.

And a likely place to find such an area is to check the back ends of coves where water is shallowest. For here, by mid-summer, water plants such as algae and moss have developed a thick, spongy layer that serves as a water conditioner for fish.

A common theory brought to the attention of the fishing department at Mercury outboards, is that water is cooler beneath such layers of plant life. For one thing, the water is shaded from direct rays of the sun. Another thought is that the plants act as an evaporating cooler for the water underneath. Whatever the reason, these thick beds of water plants are good places to fish.

Templing a bass or pike out of a cool spot beneath the moss isn't easy. One method calls for using a pork rind frog, with a single weedless hook. (Another popular lure is a sponge rubber frog or mouse, with double hooks imbedded in the lure to prevent their being clogged by algae or moss. The weedless feature is important.)

Cast the lure into the middle of the weedbed. Let it sit a minute, and then begin hopping it along on top of the moss. Stop every few feet, then begin the retrieve again.

When almost to the edge of the weed bed, give the lure several short, quick hops, hop it into the water and then let the line go slack. This simulates the action of a frog jumping into the water and then gliding along without kicking.

If your boat is in the weed bed, the lads at Mercury suggest that you never give up the retrieve technique until the lure is in the boat. A big bass will often follow a park frog right up to the boat before deciding to take it for supper.

Texas Seeks Replacement for Speyrer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ground-oriented Texas lost its long-distance striking force when Cotton Speyrer suffered a broken arm in the Oklahoma game. Dean Campbell and Danny Lester will try to replace Speyrer Saturday when the defending national champions meet Rice in Houston.

At 5-foot-5 Campbell is the smallest player in the Southwest Conference. Lester, a proven defensive back, will probably get some double duty.

Here's how they see their roles as Texas tries for its third consecutive SWC title:

Q—First, how has the loss of Speyrer affected the team?

Lester—We're all sorry about it, but we can't afford to let it get us down. He can't help us anymore, so we've got to help ourselves.

Campbell—Everybody was disappointed, of course, but we've had trouble before and come through it. Last year we lost Leo Brooks and we went on and did what we had to do.

Q—You were both wingbacks in high school and have worked at wide receiver in college. How about your backgrounds as pass receivers?

Lester—I was mainly a receiver in high school (Amarillo Tascosa), sort of a flanker. As a freshman at Texas I was a split end and defensive halfback and started both ways. The only time I played split end in a varsity game was against Rice two years ago. I got in the last two series and they threw one pass to me, but a lineman knocked it down. Last year, I worked some at split end during two-a-days, but I haven't worked out there since, until last week. It's really not that hard a position—there are just a few things to learn.

Campbell—I was more of a blocking back and runner in high school (Austin High), but I caught some passes, and I was mainly a receiver in junior college (Blinn). This year I played about half the game against California and a little in all the others. They have thrown me two passes, both against Cal. The linebacker knocked one down and the next time I was open but Gary Keithley overthrew me. I was supposed to run a 12-yard out pattern, but I saw nobody was covering me, so I took off. Gary said he was surprised that I was so far in the open that he overthrew me.

Q—How would you size up Danny Lester and Dean Campbell as split ends?

Lester—We don't have the breakaway threat that Cotton had, but we're both basically sound as ends. We'll just have to hope we can get by with that.

Campbell—Danny runs good patterns and has good hands. He's a good athlete and probably the fastest man in our secondary. I don't think I'm as fast as Danny, but I may have a little more knowledge of the position, having played it longer. I'm disappointed that I won't get to start, but if it helps the team I'll be satisfied.

Q—How about the Texas passing game?

Lester—We just use it when we have to and we aren't really forced to pass that much with that backfield we've got. We catch people off balance once in a while with a pass and truck them a little bit. I caught Eddie Phillips very little as a freshman. He throws a pretty hard ball; he has a good strong arm.

Campbell—Gary Keithley and Eddie Phillips have real strong arms and Donnie Wiggington is a real fine short passer. At the first of practice we rotate and catch from all the quarterbacks. Then we go into teams and Eddie throws to Danny and Donnie throws to me.

Irish Catcher Challenging Nat'l Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Gatewood is bringing back memories of Leon Hart and challenging national records as the ace catcher for Notre Dame.

The 6-foot-2, 205-pound junior, favorite target of quarterback Joe Theismann, has caught 44 passes in the first five games and is averaging 8.8 catches per game.

Only three players in major college history have finished the season with a better average—and one of these did it twice.

Howard Twilley of Tulsa led the country in 1964 with a 9.5 average and in 1965 with 13.4. Glenn Neltzer of Wichita State averaged 9.1 catches a game in 1966 and Jerry Jendren of Idaho 9.5 in 1969.

The latest figures released by the National Collegiate Sports Services show that Gatewood has accounted for 679 yards and five touchdowns in his team's five winning games.

In 1949, Hart, a 6-5, 26-pound giant, won the Heisman Trophy as a Notre Dame end. However, he caught only 19 passes all season in ten games.

Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian has labeled Gatewood "Tom the Swinging Gate." Gatewood has been used as split end, tight end, slot back, and flanker.

Ernie Jennings, ace receiver of the Air Force, plays split end, slot back, tailback and flanker. He leads the nation in yards per catch—21.9 yards. He also leads in touchdown catches, nine.

Major HOOPLES

for games of Saturday, October 24

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Pigskin Genius

Egad, friends, your erudite prognosticator warned you last week that there were many disquieting portents lurking in the football firmament which—kaff-kaff—indicated an upheaval of monumental proportions.

True to our prediction, the favored teams were tossed about by the underdogs with all the abandon of leaves spinning before the force of an October nuclear blast—um-kumph!

This week, your faithful correspondent sees a return to normalcy on the nation's gridirons with the chalk horses—er—favored clubs—winning most contests. Most, that is, but not all!

With all of the top-rated teams except Notre Dame slated to see action, the eyes of the football world will be focused on two major meetings, the first at Cliff Hare Stadium, where host Auburn will put its undefeated (5-0) record on the block against the stubborn LSU Tigers (4-1). In a bruising battle, the Hoople System sees the Tigers taking a three-point, 24-21 decision.

The second contest, equal in popular interest with the football filiberts, is the Texas-Rice meeting in Houston. True to tradition, the Rice Owls will frolic in this after-dark affair by stunning the unbeaten Longhorns (5-0) by a 24-23 count. The margin will be as thin as the sliced beef at Chili Joe's. Would you believe, dear readers, that last week Joe's beef was so thin I could read the newspaper through it—heh-heh!

A matchmaker's dream is the Tennessee-Florida game on the Vols' home field in Knoxville. For young Bill Battle, serving his first year as head coach of the Volunteers, it will be a big day as his stalwart polish off the well-regarded Gators, 17-14.

The undefeated powerhouses representing Ohio State, the Air Force, Toledo, Michigan and Yale will continue in high gear as they

Clay Is His Usual Self at Physical

ATLANTA (AP) — "I'm the best, that's all, I'm the champ," said Muhammad Ali. "Until I hit you on the chin," said Jerry Quarry. "I've beaten them all — Liston, Patterson," said Ali. "You're fighting me now, baby," said Quarry. "All I want to say is ... I'll see you fight night. When you beat me, you'll be the greatest fighter in the world," said Ali. "That's what I'm trying to say," said Quarry. "Bring a slab," said Ali. "You'll need it." That was the way it went Wednesday as Ali, former world heavyweight champion formerly known as Cassius Clay, and Quarry, current No. 1 contender in the heavyweight division, underwent simultaneous physical examinations for the 15-round meeting Monday night. Two Negro doctors administered the physical, prompting Ali to shout, "Soul doctors for a change." "You'll need more help than that," said Quarry. Ali, undefeated champion who was stripped of his title because of a conviction on charges of refusing to report for the draft, weighed 210 for his physical exam. He expects to be 208 for the fight, his first in three and a half years. He weighed 212 in March, 1967, when he knocked out Zora Foley in his last ring appearance. Quarry, a 26-year-old body puncher, weighed 198 Wednesday. Quarry has 37 victories, four losses and four draws in his professional career. He has scored 23 knockouts.

Statistics Give a True Pro Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—If the National Football League individual statistics are giving a true picture, the National Conference has the better long-distance runners and the American Conference has the better long-distance passers.

Statistics released today show three NFC ground gainers—MacArthur Lane of St. Louis, Larry Brown of Washington and Calvin Hill of Dallas—with more than 400 yards gained rushing. Not one AFC back can make that claim.

At the same time, the statistics show three AFC passers—Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, Bob Griese of Miami and Dennis Shaw of Buffalo—gaining more than eight yards a completion. Only one NFC passer can make that claim, John Brodie of San Francisco.

Lane leads the NFC rushers with 494 yards for a 6.1 average to 433 yards and a 5.2 average for Brown, last week's leader. Hill is right behind Brown with 427 yards and a 4.2 average.

The AFC leader is Hewitt Dixon of Oakland, who pulled into first place with the AFC's top performance of the season by gaining 164 yards in 18 attempts against Washington. That gave him a total of 369 and a 5.4 average.

The runner-up is last week's leader, Floyd Little of Denver, with 353 yards and a 3.8 average. Leroy Kelly of Cleveland is third with 334 yards and a 3.6 average.

Lamonica ranks No. 1 in the AFC, completing 56.9 per cent of his passes for 1,282 yards, 11 touchdowns and an average gain of 8.01. Griese is second with a 53.8 completion percentage, 899 yards, seven touchdowns and an 8.48 mark for average yards gained.

One of the two big surprises is Shaw, the Bills' rookie quarterback, who has the best average gain of 10.22 yards. He has completed 62.5 per cent of his passes for 1,063 yards and four touchdowns.

The other surprise is Joe Namath, the injured New York Jets' quarterback who raised his yardage total to 1,259 against Baltimore but still dropped out of the top 10.

Brodie is the lone AFC passer with more than 1,000 yards gained. The veteran 49ers' quarterback has completed 61.5 per cent of his passes for 1,094 yards, eight touchdowns and an average gain of 8.10.

The No. 1 pass receiver is Baltimore's Ed Hinton with 27. Following him in the AFC are Warren Wells of Oakland with 23 and Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo with 22. Gene Washington, Brodie's favorite target at San Francisco, tops the NFC with 26, followed by Dick Gordon of Chicago and Ron Johnson of the New York Giants, each with 25.

Fred Cox of Minnesota's Vikings is the leading scorer with 51 points in the NFC, followed by rookie David Ray of Los Angeles, with 49.

Jan Stenerud of Kansas City is the AFC leader with 45, one more than Bobby Howfield of Denver.

Bobby Joe Green leads the NFC's punters with a 43.3 average, Bruce Taylor of San Francisco is No. 1 in punt returns with a 12.4 average, Cecil Turner is tops in kickoff returns with a 35.8 average and there is a three-way tie for the interception lead among Clarence Williams of Los Angeles, Willie Wood of Green Bay and Spider Lockhart of New York. Each has four.

Scott, former star of the University of North Carolina, threw in 33 points to pace the Virginia Squires over the Kentucky Colonels 112-97 Wednesday night. Issel, former standout for the University of Kentucky, scored 27 for the Colonels.

The unbeaten Indiana Pacers made it five straight by defeating the Carolina Cougars 125-113 behind Roger Brown's 32 points.

The Utah Stars downed the St. Louis Stars 140-108 and the Denver Rockets wallowed the Texas Chaparrals 133-115 in the other scheduled ABA games. In the National Basketball Association Detroit beat Boston 121-118, Baltimore whipped Cincinnati 117-105, Los Angeles routed Philadelphia 141-117, Atlanta shaded San Francisco 102-100 and Seattle defeated Phoenix 110-106.

Ralph Simpson, rookie from Michigan State, tossed in 22 points to be right behind the 24 scored by Don Sidle as the Rockets chalked up their first victory of the ABA season.

Zelmo Beaty, the "Big Z," led Utah over the Condors with 28 points and 20 rebounds. John Brisker led Pittsburgh with 25. Bob Verga again was high for Carolina in a losing cause with 33 points.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Utility infielder Dick Schofield, a 17-year veteran in the majors, has re-joined the St. Louis Cardinals in a trade from the Boston Red Sox.

Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine said Wednesday the 35-year-old Schofield was reacquired in a straight player trade for outfielder-first baseman Jim Campbell of Tulsa, whose contract was assigned to Louisville.

In the American Basketball Association, Utah walloped Pittsburgh 140-108, Virginia downed Kentucky 112-97, Indiana took Carolina 125-113 and Denver trounced Texas 133-115.

Los Angeles sent Philadelphia to its first defeat in five games as Jerry West scored 37 points and Wilt Chamberlain poured in 26 and grabbed 22 rebounds. Billy Cunningham led Philadelphia with 22 points, one more than Jim Washington. Jim Davis came up with two steals and a rebound in the closing seconds to help Atlanta past San Francisco. Davis finished with 12 points, 13 rebounds, four steals and four blocked shots. Walt Hazzard led Atlanta scoring with 29 points, while Jeff Mullins topped San Francisco with 19.

Baltimore sent winless Cincinnati to its third straight loss with a 35-point fourth quarter. Gus Johnson finished with 27 points and Jack Marin 26 points for Baltimore. Norm Van Lier led Cincinnati with 17.

Seattle's Bob Rule scored 25 points including the two free throws that broke a 104-104 tie and paved the way to the SuperSonics' triumph. Greg Howard of Phoenix topped all scorers with 26 points.

I think one of the most important things that I need to get across to the people during this campaign is that I'll be a full-time Lieutenant Governor. The people expect the man they put in office to take care of their business first.

If a candidate is not willing to do this — to serve the people first — he has no business running for office.

Sterling Cockrill serves people, not politicians.

Elect him your full-time Lt. Governor.

HEMPSTEAD COUNTY-1970 Farm Family of the Year

Farm Family of Year Title Goes to R.E. Lively of Washington

The Richard E. (Pete) Lively family of Route 1, Washington, Ark., has been selected as the Hempstead County Farm Family of the Year.

Each year during October, a farm family is recognized for their achievements in the farm business, their home life, and their contributions to the community.

The Lively's live in an attractive brick home, located on Arkansas Highway 73, eleven miles from Hope in the Crossroads Community. Pete and Mrs. Lively (Bonnie) have two sons and a daughter. The two sons, David and Richard, live in the home. David has attended Southern State College and is now employed by the Arkansas Highway Department. Richard is employed at Hope High School. The daughter, Mrs. LeRoy Sigman, lives in Weatherford, Texas.

Prior to their move back to Hempstead County in 1965, the Lively's had a livestock farm at Cameron, Oklahoma. At this time Mr. Lively was employed as sales manager with the American Television Company in Fort Smith, Arkansas. Before being discharged in 1959 from the U.S. Army, Mr. Lively attained the rank of Major. Responsibilities while in the Army included serving as Battalion Commander in both the United States and in Korea, Chief of Tactics for the 101st Airborne Division, and as an Inspector General for several years.

A number of citations and decorations have been awarded to Major Lively. Among these are the Silver Star, 2 Bronze Stars, 3 Purple Hearts, The Commendation Ribbon, and fifteen other Citations and Decorations, including three Presidential Citations. One of these prized Presidential Citations was awarded by the President of South Korea, Sigman Ree.

One of the strong points in the selection of the Lively's as Farm Family of the Year, was their participation in community activities. The family members belong to the First United Methodist Church at Hope, where Mr. Lively is member of the Official Board and the Steering Committee. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lively heads the foods committee and Mr. Lively is a County Board Member. In addition, the Farm Organization work Mr. Lively is Chairman of the Community A.S.C.S. Committee.

One of the Lively's major contributions to charitable organizations, includes the conducting of lectures by Pete, for the American Cancer Society.

The Lively's produce registered Angus cattle as well as replacement pullets on their 400 acre farm. A very good job of fertilization, rotational grazing, and management is done with the livestock program. Very detailed planning and budgeting is done both on a short term as well as a long term basis. This is done for the operation of the home as well as the farm.

To avoid an excess amount of haying during winter months, Fescue and Clover have been added to the pastures. This, plus bermuda and bahia grasses, gives Mr. Lively some grazing for at least 10 months of the year.

To insure the highest returns from the Angus cattle, a detailed production and health record is kept on each animal. After replacements have gone back into the herd, marketable animals are sold to local livestock producers.

Mrs. Lively plans the menu for the family to such a thorough degree that three freezers are used for storage of both vegetables from the home garden and beef and pork from the farm.

As winners of the Hempstead County Farm Family of the Year award, the Lively family will compete with other County Winners in Southwest Arkansas for the District Farm Family of the Year.

During the month of December, these families will be recognized for their accomplishments at a luncheon at Little Rock.

The sponsors of the Farm Family of the Year Program are the Arkansas Power and Light Company and the Arkansas Press Association in cooperation with the Agricultural Agencies, local banks and Hope-Hempstead Chamber of Commerce. These sponsors are happy to recognize this outstanding family for their achievements in the home, in the community, and on the farm.

The "Arkansas Farm Family of the Year" will be selected during the week of November 16-20 from the five first place district farm families and will receive an etched copper plaque.

Some 1,500 Entered in Contest for Farm Family of the Year

The Arkansas Farm Family of the Year program has served as a vehicle to honor outstanding farm families since shortly after the close of World War II. It has continued on an uninterrupted basis since its beginning.

Over 1500 families from every county in the state have been named "County Farm Family of the Year". This year, approximately 70 more families will be added to the growing list.

The objective of the program, in addition to honoring outstanding farm families, is to point out the importance of agriculture to our state's economy.

The family to be honored is selected by a county committee consisting of agricultural and business leaders. Consideration is given to the efficiency of farm operation, home management practices and community leadership.

During the week of October 26, visiting teams will visit the families in the five districts and determine a district Farm Family of the Year for each district. About mid-November, another visiting team will review the five district families and select one as the "Arkansas Farm Family of the Year for 1970".

On December 11, families from leadership and homemaking; give proper recognition to the importance of agriculture in the community and state, and disseminate information on improved farm practices and good farm and home management.

all participating counties will be invited to a recognition luncheon meeting in Little Rock. At this meeting, each family will be recognized and slides of their farm operation and home will be shown. The announcement of the "Arkansas Farm Family of the Year" will highlight the meeting.

The program is sponsored by Arkansas Power and Light Company and Arkansas Press Association with the cooperation of the University of Arkansas Agricultural Extension Service, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Farmers Home Administration, the Soil Conservation Service and Vocational Agriculture.

How the Farm Family Was Selected

The following scorecard was used in selecting the Richard E. "Pete" Lively family as the Hempstead County 1970 Farm Family of the Year.

Farm, 50 points, included Resource Use of Land, Labor, Capital, Rates of Production and Management Practices.

Home, 30 points, included Time, Money, Energy.

Rural Leadership, Community Values and Family Life, 20 points.

District judging for Farm Family of the Year will be during the week of October 26-30, on the basis of the Agricultural Extension Service districts.

Program Was Started in State in 1946

The "Farm Family of the Year" program was started in 1946, and has recognized outstanding farm families, both tenants and landowners, each year since its beginning.

The objectives of the program are:

Give recognition and encouragement to farm families who are doing an outstanding job in farming, community

Dayton Player Top Scorer in Nation

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sleepless nights and stomach aches go along with the national college football scoring lead—at least for Gary Kosins of the University of Dayton.

It's not all glory for the powerful 6-foot-2, 210-pound junior halfback. His 18 points a game is No. 1 among the major colleges and his 157.4 rushing yards a game No. 2 in the country in latest NCAA statistics.

"People come up to me and say, 'Boy, it must be nice to be the leading scorer,'" Kosins said. "I don't even like to talk about the scoring lead. It scares me."

"I would like to ask those people if they think it is worth the sleepless nights and the stomach aches I keep getting."

"Before and after a game I get stomach cramps so bad I can't stand up straight. I keep a coating liquid in my locker to help ease them."

"Yes, I feel the pressure."

I can't sleep the night before a game. But on the field the pressure helps. It makes my adrenaline flow."

Kosins thinks only in terms of national goals, but already owns seven school records in mid-season of his junior year.

"I wanted to be the No. 1 or 2 rusher in the country. Now that sounds tough, but I didn't do this thing with emotions. I did it with my intellect," he said.

"I sat down and figured it out. The leader last year had 1,244 yards. That's 120 yards a game. I figured there was no reason I couldn't get 120 yards a game, especially since I carry the ball 40 to 50 times a game," said Kosins.

He's only played 4½ games this season after starting as a sophomore, yet is No. 1 in Dayton record books in career points, touchdowns and carries, one-game points and touchdowns and one-season points and touchdowns.

John McVay coach of the Flyers, which have a 3-2-1 record, says Kosins is the best back in Flyer history. He's attracting plenty of pro scouts too, even with a season of eligibility left.

LONDON (AP) — British golf star Tony Jacklin, winner of the U.S. Open, covered a new course in 331-3 — the record making speed of a long player.

He cut the phonograph record in a London studio Wednesday — 1 songs in a 12-hour session backed by a 36-piece orchestra.

"If this record's a success — who knows? Crosby might have new opposition as a crooner as well as on the golf course," he quipped.

Jacklin, 26, sang oldies like "If You Were the Only Girl in the World" and "Come Fly With Me." "Bye, Bye, Birdie" was not on the program.

QUEBEC (AP) — A three-year agreement was signed Wednesday between officials of the Montreal Expos of baseball's National League and officials of the Quebec Indians which will enable the Expos to have the Quebec tea as their class AA affiliate.

Quebec City and Trois-Rivières recently were granted franchises in the Class AA Eastern League, provided that both cities obtained working agreements with major league clubs.

Gilbert Is Sparkplug for Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It had been a couple of years since Gilles Gilbert's father had watched his son play hockey. But he picked the right night to look in on the 21-year-old goaltender.

Young Gilbert kicked out 46 Montreal shots Wednesday night and sparked Minnesota to a 3-1 victory over the Canadiens in a virtual one-man show.

"I was very proud of my boy," said Mr. Gilbert, who had not seen Gilles play since the latter's junior hockey days in London, Ontario, two years ago. "I wasn't nervous for him at all."

That was natural. The elder Gilbert played Senior "B" goal himself so he knew what Gilles was going through. So did Gump Worsley, Minnesota's 41-year-old goalie, who watched the youngster survive a 23-shot second period.

"I had barrages like that many times when I played for New York years ago," said Worsley. "It's awful. The kid did great."

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday, New York topped Toronto 3-2, St. Louis tied California 2-2 and Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 4-2.

After Montreal's 23-shot second period, the North Stars broke a 1-1 tie on third period goals by Bill Goldworthy and Danny Grant.

New York bounced from behind on third period goals by Walt Tkaczuk and Vic Hadfield to nip Toronto. Hadfield hit twice for the Rangers while rookie Guy Trotter and veteran Norm Ullman connected for the Maple Leafs.

"They outplayed us for two periods—beat us at the fundamentals of the game," said Emile Francis, general manager-coach of the Rangers. "You have to give them credit. They wouldn't let us get going."

California, losers of its first five games this season, appeared on the way to a victory as Gary Croteau and Joe Hardy gave the Golden Seals a 2-0 second-period lead. But in a one-minute and two-second span midway in the final frame Gary Sabourin and George Morrison tallied for the Blues to tie it.

The Kings broke open a tight defensive game with three successive third-period goals to bounce Pittsburgh. Bob Pulford, Larry Mickey and Juha Widing did the damage for Los Angeles after Andy Bathgate and Ron Schock had the Penguins a 2-1 lead.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Cash, one of the most highly publicized entertainers on the contemporary scene, is back on ABC for another season of variety hours from Nashville. The show, now and last season, is fine when it sticks to music, but gets into trouble with comedy. On Wednesday night, Cash introduced Marty Robbins for a comedy routine which curled up and died for a variety of reasons.

The country-Western artist seems interested in broadening his series' audience base this season. He had Peggy Lee, an especially urbane entertainer, as his guest. But like oil and water, Cash and Lee didn't mix well.

"The Advocates," the current affairs program started on the education network last season, has come back with a radical change of format. The program still takes up a different subject each week but now its form is more like that of "Divorce Court" than a debate.

Under consideration Wednesday night was the idea of economist Milton Friedman to restructure the educational system by issuing vouchers with which parents could send children to the school of their choice.

In the new set-up two lawyers take opposing viewpoints and call witnesses for direct examination then cross-examination. Considerable heat and some light was generated, but generally the program consisted of a lot of wrangling and oratory. The word is around—spread primarily by the weekly Nielsen ratings—that this season's youth kick by TV programmers is not shared by the viewers. "Storefront Lawyers" on CBS, one of the new "relevant" series, is reputed to be a leading candidate for salvage operations.

Three young lawyers now alternate in leading poor people to happy endings. It is expected, however, that the trio will move out of their storefronts where they give free legal advice and into ordinary offices. Also de-emphasized, it is expected, will be the most mod aspects of the characters, and Robert Foxworth, who has been playing an almost establishment attorney, will receive heavier parts.

This week's episode was less concerned with generation difficulties than the mistreatment of Mexican farm labor by one bully. It began with a law student, hunting for a missing worker, beaten by the bully's goons and tossed in jail.

Campaign Spending Very High

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's re-election plan calls for more than $100,000 worth of air time and production facilities of the three Little Rock television stations alone.

On the same stations, the Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, Sterling R. Cockrill Jr., may spend more than Dale Bumpers, the Democratic nominee for governor.

Those items of information were turned up in an inspection of the contracts between the stations and the candidates. The data tends to illustrate what many term an unhealthy development: The high cost of public office.

Early in the race for Democratic gubernatorial nomination, James M. Malone Jr. said Rockefeller's third-term campaign would be "like another industry."

In a sense, that is true. But the same is true to some degree of most, though perhaps not all, major candidates for statewide political office, including the race by Bumpers.

The degree of difference reflects the variance in the sizes of the "industries," a variance sometimes between one wealthy sum and another, the substantial as distinguished from the supersubstantial.

Some observers contend that a result is that the campaign of the little man, the candidate without huge dollar reserves, occasionally is drowned in the opposition's flood of money, rather than defeated for lack of merit.

"You can't get people to buy widgets if you don't have enough money to give them a good, clear explanation of what widgets are," one advertising man explained.

Malone, a farmer-businessman at Lonoke, reports expenditures of $22,606.74 for the 70-day campaign from the June 16 filing deadline to the Aug. 25 preferential primary.

He ran next to last in a field of eight.

Large expenditures do not guarantee that a campaign will succeed, but all sides concur in the idea that the availability of money is a big factor in whether campaigns for major office succeed.

What do successful candidates spend to win one of the top state jobs? Is the figure $50,000? Or $250,000? Or millions? Some have suggested the latter.

Rockefeller, the Republican nominee for a third term, is undoubtedly the General Motors among campaign treasuries in Arkansas.

No other candidate in memory has possessed personal wealth in amounts that would permit individual competition dollar-for-dollar with the governor's financial resources. Bumpers has called the governor's spending in this year's campaigns a "callous misuse" of money and an open "insult" to the people.

But Rockefeller's aides argue that his riches can be a handicap: Knowing of his wealth, an average Rockefeller supporter often fails to contribute to the campaign chest, thinking his money isn't needed. That leaves an over-sized portion of the campaign financing burden to Rockefeller himself, the aides contend.

The Rockefeller camp also offers the theory that one man's fortune, while massive, may be matched or exceeded by lesser fortunes combined to oppose him.

This, they suggest, may be the case with Bumpers, backed by "old guard" money, which Bumpers denies. The Democratic nominee says he has received small contributions from supporters and large support from his own funds and the funds of relatives.

Bumpers has publicly acknowledged, however, that his campaign costs already have gone past the $150,000 level. He adds, though, that Rockefeller is spending much more.

Rockefeller adamantly refuses to reveal his own monetary outlay. He strenuously asserts that Bumpers' candidacy is not financial undernourished. Rockefeller aides adopt similar views.

If judged by their public comments, the governor's assistants, including campaign director Marion Burton, would appear more familiar with Bumpers' campaign costs than with their own candidates'.

But one Rockefeller aide, Robert Fisher, says expenditures likely will reach, and possibly surpass, a half-million dollars for the campaign.

There are a number of people who contend, and some evidence to indicate, that Fisher's figure will fall short of the actual total.

He is hasty to add, incidentally, that the Bumpers campaign costs will be roughly the same as Rockefeller's.

The available evidence, while severely limited and not definitive, indicates, however, that Bumpers will spend a great deal less than Rockefeller.

But even the figures Bumpers himself has already admittedly spent amount to more than $1,000 per day for the 140 days from the filing deadline to the Nov. 3 general election.

Poll Reveals Democrat Leads in New Jersey

By BOB DUBILL
Associated Press Writer
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The trend in New Jersey was all Republican, and Nelson Gerard Gross, a young lawyer who had helped put Richard Nixon in the White House, looked like just the man to ride the tide into the U.S. Senate.

With Gross managing his state campaign, Nixon had carried New Jersey by 60,000 votes in 1968.

A year later, William T. Cahill, with an important campaign assist from the President, swept the governorship by a record plurality, ending 16 years of Democratic rule in the statehouse.

That left only one Democrat holding statewide office—Harrison A. Williams Jr., a two-term senator already facing a tough primary in a badly split party.

Moreover, there was gossip all over the state that Williams had a drinking problem.

That was the situation six months ago. Now, two weeks before the election, a poll commissioned by the Republican Party shows Democrat Williams leading by 100,000 votes.

President Nixon, making a whirlwind visit to the state Oct. 27, insisted that Gross would win, saying he "has campaigned with skill and determination; he has the momentum and will go over the top."

Privately, however, Republican leaders concede the President was overly optimistic. "It's awfully difficult to unseat an incumbent," observed John Dimon, who succeeded Gross as state chairman.

The political situation in New Jersey shifted suddenly after the June primary.

The Democratic party closed ranks, with old-line party leaders, the New Liberal Coalition and organized labor uniting in support of Williams.

Williams himself brought the drinking issue into the open, publicly confirming private gossip. "I used to drink too much," he said. "I don't drink any more and I feel great."

Then, the Republicans began fighting among themselves. An organizational dispute split the party in populous Essex County, and an ideological one developed in Gross' power base, Bergen County. Sheriff Joseph F. Job, a conservative Republican who insists he's still a member of the party, is running as an independent for the Senate on the ground that Gross is too liberal.

Observers agree he could hurt Gross in a close race. The abduction was discovered Sunday when the real mother came to pick up her son... The baby was born prematurely July 27 and had been kept at the hospital until he weighed 5 pounds.

Gross already had made enemies within the party. As chairman of the Bergen County organization, he led 18 of New Jersey's 40 delegates to the Republican National Convention in a bolt to Nixon from the favorite-son candidacy of U.S. Sen. Clifford P. Case. The senator remains cool to him to this day.

Then, as state chairman, Gross enraged supporters of Charles Sandman by throwing his support to Cahill in the 1969 primary for the gubernatorial nomination.

Against the background of these political handicaps, a Republican "insiders' newsletter" was leaked to the public, and suddenly Gross found himself in a third-down situation with half a mile to go. The newsletter, which has haunted him ever since, said:

"I would like to let you in on what was but no longer is a bit of a secret. During my early campaigning I assumed certain positions, the purpose of which was to draw out my opponent. As a result, he is now locked in tight on a number of major issues in a way that I am confident will not please the majority of voters. You may have been wondering a little what I was doing. Now you know and I am happy to report to you the good results."

Williams seized on the credibility issue. Each time the challenger proclaims he supports "the Nixon doctrine to the hilt," Williams recalls that Gross originally opposed the President's action in Cambodia, and asks, "is this the real Nelson Gross?"

Gross, who says he changed his mind after visiting Vietnam, contends the controversial newsletter was put out by an aide for morale purposes and to brief workers on campaign strategy.

"I think you could call it a mistake from a tactical viewpoint," he concedes.

Kidnapped Baby Is Unharmed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 3-month-old boy has been recovered unharmed in a Philadelphia apartment four days after he was taken from a Richmond, Va., hospital by a woman who posed as his mother.

A 20-year-old woman, Anne Delores Taylor of Philadelphia, was arrested and charged with kidnaping, the FBI said.

The FBI said the unnamed baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Robinson of Richmond, was taken to a hospital here.

The woman, who the FBI said is also known as Andrena Taylor, was held in lieu of $20,000 bail pending a preliminary hearing before a U.S. commissioner.

The FBI did not say what the motive for the kidnaping was.

Richmond police disclosed the abduction from the Medical College of Virginia Hospital earlier Wednesday night, saying the incident had been kept secret to assist the investigation.

Police said a woman signed the mother's name to a release form Saturday and took the child from the hospital.

The abduction was discovered Sunday when the real mother came to pick up her son... The baby was born prematurely July 27 and had been kept at the hospital until he weighed 5 pounds.

30 Racing Horses Are Destroyed

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — At least 30 thoroughbred race horses valued at almost $500,000 were killed in a fast-moving fire that destroyed a barn at the Garden State Race Track Wednesday night.

A trainer collapsed and died early today after going through the ruins to check if any of his horses had died. A 19-year-old groom was missing and track officials fear he may have died in the blaze.

The blaze broke out just before midnight in Barn D, a large barn that houses 55 horses in the track paddock area. John Madala, track security chief, said the fire started at the south end of the barn and spread quickly through the structure.

Despite a light rain, the barn was a roaring inferno by the time five Cherry Hill fire companies arrived. Flames were visible for several miles during the hour-long fire.

Terrified horses roamed through the area and interfered with efforts to rescue other race horses, track workers said.

Thomas W. Reardon, a trainer in his 50s, of Colts Neck, N.J., collapsed after inspecting the rubble and died in Cherry Hill Hospital.

A stable boy discovered the fire and notified track police, then roused about 20 hands who were sleeping in a nearby barn. They saved as many horses as they could, but smoke was so dense "you couldn't see where you were going," said Charles Moyer, a groom.

Rain and wind continued through the morning and all the horses weren't rounded up until dawn. About 1,300 horses are stabled at the track. The last fire here killed five horses in May 1969.

The Gospel of Mark is regarded as the earliest of the Gospels.

Homosexual Takeover Is Feared

By CHARLES MCFADDEN
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — An official of sparsely settled Alpine County says there is no way to prevent hundreds of homosexuals from becoming residents and laying the groundwork for a political takeover.

"If these people come up and abide by the laws there's nothing in the world we can do to prevent them from becoming residents of the county," said Hubert Bruns, chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

The Gay Liberation Front, an organization of homosexuals, announced plans in Los Angeles Tuesday to start an influx of homesteading homosexuals into the county in the Sierra Nevada mountain range.

Bruns and four other officials discussed the situation behind closed doors Wednesday with Richard Turner, assistant legal affairs secretary to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"Were you encouraged by your meeting with Turner?" asked a newsman at an impromptu news conference afterwards.

"No," replied Bruns.

Alpine County, with a population of slightly more than 400, had 384 eligible voters in the June 2 primary election. The Gay Liberation Front said Tuesday 479 homosexuals had signed up for the move into the county.

They said they would demand a special election after waiting out the 90-day residency requirement, then vote out the present elected officials.

The replacements—including a judge, sheriff and members of the five-man board of supervisors—would be homosexuals if the plan works out.

Spokesmen for the Gay Liberation Front said its members planned the takeover to escape persecution from the "straight" society. They said the county could eventually become a mecca for homosexuals from across the nation.

Defense Wants Calley as a Witness

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Defense lawyers at S.Sgt. David Mitchell's court-martial want his platoon leader at My Lai in 1968, 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., to appear as a witness.

An informed source said Wednesday counsel for Mitchell had asked that Calley be subpoenaed.

The defense was scheduled to begin presentation of its case today after a 48-hour recess.

The prosecution surprised the defense by resting its case Tuesday after calling only three witnesses. None testified to seeing Mitchell fire any shots which struck anyone at My Lai.

Calley reportedly is scheduled to make a trip to Vietnam Monday with his lawyers to take depositions from five South Vietnamese witnesses in his own case. A special session in Mitchell's trial may have to be held Saturday to receive Calley's testimony, the source said.

Calley is charged with murder of 30 civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. His court-martial is set for Nov. 16 at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Mitchell, 30, of St. Francisville, La., is charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

Russia, U.S. to Talk Over Major Issues

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon meets the Soviet foreign minister today to sound out Kremlin attitude toward Nixon's "era of negotiations" approach to major East-West issues.

Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko lashed out at the United States Wednesday, accusing Washington of trumping up charges against Moscow on Mideast truce violations and Cuban missile submarine bases.

But U.S. officials tended to rate Gromyko's speech, to the U.N. General Assembly, as a relatively routine replay of current Kremlin themes.

What Washington is still interested in, officials said, is the extent to which the Soviets will be willing to forego cold war skirmishing and negotiate seriously on items where there are possibilities for agreement.

Administration worry over Kremlin intent soared last month after U.S. intelligence reported evidence of Soviet-Egyptian Mideast truce violations and possible construction of a Russian submarine base in Cuba.

But after meeting with Gromyko last Friday and again Monday, Secretary of State William P. Rogers found the atmosphere good enough for a one-hour White House appointment for the Soviet leader.

Rogers said Gromyko asked for the date with Nixon, without specifying any particular subject matter, and that he did not know whether Gromyko was bringing a message from Kremlin chiefs to the President.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon would discuss U.S.-Soviet issues, the Mideast and his Indochina peace plan with Gromyko.

The Rogers-Gromyko sessions declassified on the Mideast issue and both sides stood fast to their opposing positions on Vietnam. The Cuba incident was closed after secret diplomatic contacts and public Soviet disavowal of intent to install a missile submarine.

Gromyko retreated from what the Americans had rated as an unacceptably tough Soviet demand in the current ambassadorial talks on Berlin. The two foreign ministers joined in hoping for progress in U.S.-Soviet strategic arms curb negotiations resuming in Helsinki next month.

In his annual policy speech to the U.N. General Assembly, Gromyko helped open possibilities for agreement in the ambassadorial talks on improving conditions for West Berlin. But he had harsh words for America on other issues.

CONSERVATIVE CANADIANS who, perhaps, eyed violence in the United States and thought, "It can't happen here," were shocked by the killing of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, left, by Quebec Liberation Front terrorists who also hold British diplomat James R. Cross, center. Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, right, promised "ceaseless pursuit" of those responsible.

Canada Has Nothing New In Kidnaping

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian government invoked the emergency War Measures Act last week partly to ward off a pre-election campaign of terrorism that Quebec separatists were believed planning, a federal minister said today.

No significant new developments were reported in the hunt for the terrorists who killed Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and were still holding British Trade Commissioner James Cross.

But Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand said in a radio interview that the kidnaping of Cross and Laporte was only part of the reason for the government's proclamation of the act, which allows security forces to conduct searches without warrants and hold suspects up to 21 days without filing charges.

Marchand said authorities "had good reason to believe" that the Quebec Liberation Front, the separatist group that kidnaped and murdered Laporte and is holding Cross hostage, wanted to disturb Montreal's Nov. 1 municipal election "by explosions of all kinds and by further kidnapings or even shooting people."

He said the Montreal and Quebec governments feared anarchy might break out in Montreal and spread rapidly through the province and the nation.

Marchand also told his listeners that the Quebec Liberation

Bizarre War Note Left by Slayers of Five Persons in California

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — A bizarre declaration of war note left at a home where five persons were slain threatens death to anyone who "misuses the natural environment."

The typewritten note, signed with the names of the four knights on fortune-telling tarot cards, said future killings would be carried out by the "People of the Free Universe."

Disclosing the note Wednesday two days after the slaying of wealthy eye surgeon Dr. Victor M. Ohta and four others, Undersheriff Paul W. Tara urged the community—100 miles south of San Francisco—to remain calm.

"We have to keep our cool. We are fighting a war and we might as well face it," Tara said.

The undersheriff said the nature of the killings and the note indicated the five were slain by cultists.

The note was found under the windshield wiper of Ohta's red Rolls Royce after the bodies of Ohta, his wife, two sons and secretary were discovered in a swimming pool at the family's $250,000 hilltop home Monday night, Tara said.

Until the note was made public, police had said they knew no motive for the slayings. They were trying to find two young men and a girl reported seen near another of the Ohtas' cars—a station wagon—before it was found abandoned on a rail-

WR Making Copter Hops Over State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller told voters on a helicopter-hopping tour of Northwest Arkansas Wednesday that Dale Bumpers, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, had little experience in state government and was not confronting the issues.

"My opponent has no record—his experience in public life is virtually nil," Rockefeller told an outdoor rally at Siloam Springs, carrying out a theme he also stressed in five other stops Wednesday in the north-west section of the state.

The governor stepped up the pace of his campaign for a third term Wednesday with stops at Harrison, Rogers, DeCatur, Berryville, Siloam Springs and Fayetteville.

At each stop, Rockefeller stressed the accomplishments of his administration, called for greater promotion of tourism in Arkansas and plugged his $200 million highway construction bond issue.

At Rogers, Rockefeller told about 200 persons that Bumpers was a "Johnny one-note."

"He's very proud of that one speech he's made," the governor said. He said that Bumpers thought that "if it's good enough to beat Faubus, it's good enough to beat Rockefeller."

He said he could not get Bumpers to come to grips with the issues. Bumpers is talking about problems he has himself identified over the years, Rockefeller said, while the governor says he is dealing with the issues.

Rockefeller said the "price tag" on programs Bumpers has been talking about would make his 1969 $90 million tax program look like "chicken feed."

Speaking at a Fayetteville rally attended by about 150 persons, Rockefeller said he was waiting for Bumpers to answer three questions: "What is his political philosophy? What has he done about it? What does he plan to do about it in the future?"

Communists Scorn Nixon Peace Plan

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The Vietnamese Communists scorned President Nixon's peace plan today as a "swindle" and a "plot." U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce accused them of "resorting to threadbare propaganda slogans."

"They show clearly the contrast between our respective approaches to these talks," Bruce said at the Paris peace conference, "and which of the two sides at this table truly desires an early and honorable end to the war."

Bruce said the President's proposal to establish a standstill cease-fire "is designed to stop the killing now." The Communists have rejected this and the other four points of the Nixon program.

Guerrillas From Syria Move Into Jordan and Take Up Positions

By HARRY DUNPHY

MOGHAYER, Jordan (AP) — About 1,800 Palestinian guerrillas have crossed into Jordan from Syria and taken up positions near the frontier village of Moghayer, the Jordanian army said today.

Brig. Atta Gasib, who commands Jordanian forces in the north, said the advance was backed by 14 tanks from the Palestine Liberation Army which moved on Torra, a town three miles west of Ramtha. Ramtha is the main border crossing point on the Damascus-Amman highway.

Gasib said the commandos are members of the Syrian-backed Saika group and entered Jordan because of pressure put on them after Gen. Hafez As-

40 Killed in Action in Past Week

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that 40 Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week, the second lowest weekly toll in 4½ years, while 33 others died from causes other than battle.

The total of South Vietnamese battlefield deaths also dropped last week, to 256, the lowest total in a month, government headquarters said.

The U.S. Command reported that allied forces killed 1,083 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong during the seven-day period, 119 less than the week before.

The weekly casualty summaries also reported 432 U.S. troops and 858 South Vietnamese soldiers wounded in action last week. This was 81 fewer Americans and 13 more South Vietnamese than were wounded a week earlier.

The report raised total American combat casualties in the Vietnam war to 43,861 killed and 290,746 wounded. The Saigon government now has reported a total of 114,872 of its troops killed and 243,886 wounded, while the allies claim to have killed 677,043 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong since Jan. 1, 1961.

The U.S. Command said 8,692 American troops have died in Vietnam from accidents, illness or other nonbattle causes.

According to the weekly summaries issued by the U.S. Command, American battlefield deaths for the past six weeks have averaged 50 per week. During a similar period a year ago, the average was 100 per week.

Spokesmen said the decline in American casualties is the result of disengagement of American forces from the battlefield and the low level of enemy activity.

Informed sources said small-unit clashes and enemy rocket and mortar attacks last week were at the lowest level since June 30, when U.S. forces closed out a two-month campaign against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong staging areas and supply depots in Cambodia.

The sources said there were an average of 34 small-unit contacts and 15 enemy rocket and mortar attacks per day last week.

"No major ground engagements were reported in Vietnam during the past 24 hours, as light and scattered action continued to characterize activity by U.S. forces," the American Command reported.

Cambodian troops fought a two-hour battle with a strong North Vietnamese and Viet Cong force 15 miles north of Phnom Penh, and air strikes drove off the attack, a Cambodian military spokesman said. There were no casualty reports from the battle.

Mr. Boyle Rambles on a Few Issues About Jumping to Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Absent-minded husbands usually have nagging wives. The faraway look they get in their eyes is an attempt to escape from incessant marital scolding.

If I were going to hide out from the police, I think I'd go and watch a weight lifting contest. They'd never think of looking there. The only fans at such affairs are close relatives of the contestants or former weight lifters recovering from hernias.

Half the temper outbursts that occur in the forenoon between office workers are caused by the fact their stomachs are empty of anything except coffee. If they all ate an egg, some bacon and toast for breakfast, they wouldn't feud so much. Nobody feels like starting a war when his stomach is full.

Never marry a girl who, when she goes to the zoo, spends the longest time staring at the reptile cage.

You can usually tell whether a man lives in or out of town by opening the bottom of his desk. If it contains a pair of over shoes or boots, you can bet he's a suburbanite.

After losing a quarrel with your wife, you can always get even with her by bragging in public about what a good cook your mother was.

What an intelligent world we'd have tomorrow if only the teen-agers of today would spend as many hours studying as they now spend admiring their hair in the mirror!

Women are always good for a laugh, and about the best one you can get from them now is watching them struggle in and out of a taxicab while wearing a tight maxidress.

Everybody in a studio audience breaks into a chuckle if a member of it tells the program emcee that he hails from Brooklyn. Professional comedians call this phenomenon "the law of K," which holds that all towns with the letter "K" in them are automatically funny for reasons unknown. Examples: Hoboken, Keokuk, Kalamazoo, and Kokomo.

What about Peoria, often jested at in the days when vaudeville was in flower? Well, according to the rule, its mention would have been an even bigger giggle getter if it were spelled "Peorkia."

Stolen Car Recovered

City Police recovered a stolen auto parked in a private driveway, it was announced. The 1967 Falcon was stolen in Little Rock, Oct. 20, parked by the thief who took another vehicle owned by Dalton Smith at the Safeway parking lot, officers said.

When apprehended 45 minutes later near Texarkana the driver listed his name as Gary Johnson of Memphis. Officers here said his real name is Jimmy Pritchett and he is from California.

Pritchett is being held in Hempstead County jail pending trial. City and State Police investigated.

Army Chief in Chile Shot, Wounded

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Unidentified assailants shot and wounded Gen. Rene Schneider, Chile's army commander, today.

A Defense Ministry communiqué said three bullets struck Schneider, who was rushed to a military hospital for surgery. Doctors said his condition was serious.

The shooting came two days before Congress meets to elect Marxist Salvador Allende president.

Three automobiles blocked Schneider's car as he was being driven to his office at the Defense Ministry.

The official report said the assailants got out of their cars and opened fire on Schneider with pistols.

Mrs. Nixon Continues Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon stays home today while his wife, Pat, goes off again campaigning on her own for Republicans on a day-long visit to Florida.

Mrs. Nixon scheduled appearances at political receptions in St. Petersburg and Ft. Myers, Fla., on behalf of GOP Senate candidate William C. Cramer, congressional hopefuls and Republican Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr., who is getting tough competition from one of the Democrats' new faces in the South, Florida State Sen. Reuben Askew.

Horse Show Saturday in Coliseum

There will be a horse show this Saturday, Oct. 24, at 2:00 p.m. in the Hope Coliseum.

It will be a challenge show between the South Central Horse Show Assn. and East-Texas Horse Show & Rodeo Assn. Both of these associations have riding clubs as members. South Central Horse Show Assn. consists of 10 clubs of which the Hope Roundup is a member. The contestants in this show will be the top 10 riders from each association in each class of the show.

Kenneth Grant, pres. of SCHSA and Leslie Brooks, pres. of the ETHSRA stated that this will be one of the most outstanding horse shows of the year.

The public is invited and there will be no admission.

Accuses WR of Creating a Crisis

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dale Bumpers, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Wednesday again accused Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of creating a "crisis of confidence" in state government which has "reached a point where the people and the legislature both no longer believe in the integrity and the ability of the administration."

Bumpers spent the day Wednesday campaigning in Nashville, Murfreesboro, Arkadelphia, Monticello and Pine Bluff.

About 400 persons paid $10 a plate to hear the Democratic nominee's standard campaign speech at a fund-raising dinner Wednesday night at Pine Bluff.

The candidate reiterated his support for the proposed new constitution, limiting campaign expense, kindergartens, special education classes in all schools, toll roads and higher teachers' salaries.

Bumpers again criticized Rockefeller's campaign spending and said that a bad situation is created when money and power are concentrated in the same hands.

He said the last 12 months had seen more plants close in Arkansas than any other recent 12 month period and that the Pine Bluff Arsenal was opened only because of hard work by Democratic congressmen in Washington. He said the state had 4,000 fewer wage and salary jobs at the end of last August than at the end of August

Temperatures to Be Some Warmer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The U.S. Weather Bureau is predicting warmer temperatures as a result of southerly winds.

The forecast for tonight is for milder temperatures with increasing cloudiness over the state, especially in the north. Overnight lows will remain mostly in the 50s.

A weak frontal system is predicted to move into the northern section of the state Friday, bringing with it the threat of showers in extreme Northern Arkansas. However, for most of the state dry conditions with slowly rising temperatures should prevail for the next several days.

Highs Wednesday ranged from 77 at Fort Smith to 64 at Memphis.

No precipitation was recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 5 p.m. today.

Ginners Act to Prevent Pollution

By KATHY GOSNELL
Pine Bluff Commercial

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two-thirds of the cotton ginners in Southeast Arkansas have moved to bring their ginning operations into compliance with state pollution control laws.

Records on file with the Air Division of the state Pollution Control Commission here show ginners have shown no effort to county area have written to the commission to say they are in compliance with the law or to seek a permit to continue operations until they are in compliance.

The other one-third is possibly in violation of the law, and the county with the law, according to Martin Maner, an environmental engineer in the commission's Air Division.

Since the commission is understaffed, Maner said, it will not investigate these gins unless someone complains to the commission.

However, Maner said, the 1970 ginning season, which began in September and will end in January, is the last period of grace for cotton ginners.

Next fall, he said, the commission will close down any gin found operating without proper equipment to control lint and dust, and emissions from open burning of waste.

The law requires each gin to cease open burning operations. Lint and dust control measures were written specifically to control pollution from cotton gins.

For this season only, the commission has agreed to issue open burning permits to gin owners who cannot find alternatives to burning wastes. No burning will be permitted next year.

The hazard is more than smoke or lint, Maner said.

Scientific studies have shown that arsenic compounds used to defoliate cotton are found in gin smoke, he said, and have been concentrated as high as three pounds of arsenic for each ton of waste burned.

Gin owners may install incinerators that comply with smoke emission standards of the commission, Maner said, or they may use the cheaper method of installing large fans to chop the waste and then use it as cattle feed or mulch.

Running the waste through fans would satisfy requirements of the state Plant Board, which is concerned with the control of the pink bollworm, Maner said. The treatment kills any bollworm larva in the waste.

An official of the Plant Board said that many ginners already have such fans.

A ginner who seeks to install incinerators soon runs into problems.

No company manufactures incinerators that comply with state pollution laws, so he would have to build his own burner.

However, Maner said, this control method would cost thousands of dollars, and is not likely to be used often, especially

Halloween Twisters Of Your Own

For an original touch to the Halloween festivities — why not make your own pretzels? Here's an easy and creative recipe — and fun too!

Mix the following together in a large mixing bowl:
1 1/2 cups of warm water
1 cake of compressed yeast (or package dry powdered yeast)
1/2 teaspoon of sugar

Let stand for one hour. Then mix in 4 1/2 cups of flour. Knead mixture for about 10 minutes. Pre-heat oven for 5 minutes to warm it, then turn OFF the heat. Place mixture in a greased bowl, cover it, and place in the warmed oven for about an hour until mixture doubles.

When it has doubled in size, make the twists as shown below. Place the twists on a greased cookie sheet—not too close together for they spread. Then—to make them look perfect.

Dilute one egg yolk with one or two tablespoons of water or milk. Brush a thin coat of the liquid on each pretzel. Sprinkle with coarse salt.

Bake in a preheated oven at 475 degrees for 12-15 minutes until they are golden brown. Yields about 2 dozen.

Eat them hot, right out of the oven, dipped in mustard, the way the professional pretzel bakers do, or dipped in a special Halloween dip. Your own homemade pretzels — delicious.

HOW TO TWIST

Step One: Take a chunk of dough about the size of a golf ball. Roll into a "rope" about 15" long. Be sure to work on a piece of wax paper so that the dough doesn't stick.

Step Two: Make a loop by carefully picking up the ends. Your pretzel is beginning to take shape.

Step Three: Bring the left end of the loop over to the right—and the right end under the left. A twist will be formed in the center.

Step Four: For the traditional three hole shape, bring the ends over and down. Press them against the sides of the loop. Now you have a perfect twist pretzel.

YUMMY HALLOWEEN DIPS
A special treat to go along with your freshly baked pretzels is a delicious Halloween dip. Here are two that will delight your family or enhance any Halloween party.

Witch's Brew Dip
1/2 cup each, finely chopped onion and green pepper. Drop into heavy saucepan in which 2 tablespoons butter is bubbling and saute a minute or two. Don't brown. Add salt and pepper lightly.

Now add 1/2 pound grated cheddar cheese and let it melt over VERY LOW heat. Stir in one small can minced pimientos with their juice and mix well. Add 1 tablespoon frozen chives. 2 tablespoons good chili powder, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and a dash of garlic salt. Serve hot with your hot pretzels. If it gets too thick add heated beer! Sounds queer? No argument, but it's delicious and will disappear like magic.

Green Goblin Dip Delight
Buy 4 very ripe avocados. Cut in halves, peel and place in small deep bowl. Cover with lemon juice, about 1 tablespoon. Using silver fork, mash and whip until smooth. Stir in 1/2 clove garlic finely minced, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon tabasco with a tablespoon more lemon juice. Now add 2 teaspoons mayonnaise and 1/2 cup tomato juice, heating well. Top with a blurb of sour cream. Unusual and perfect, with your freshly baked pretzels. The perfect Halloween snack.

Wino Had It Real Good

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A female calico cat, "Wino" took up residence in a shuttered old building on Market Street in downtown San Francisco. The pitiful yowling attracted the sympathy of business people who began shoving food under the door—tuna, sardines, cream, water.

All the while the SPCA people were trying to rescue Wino, who now figured he had it pretty good.

"It's so well fed it won't leave," said SPCA agent Ray Minton at the time. Finally, they caught the cat, which was put up for auction because it seemed everybody wanted it for a pet.

But at the appointed hour for auction, nobody showed up.
